Title: Inadequacy of nutrients intake among pregnant women in unrest areas of southern Thailand

Version: 1 Date: 3 May 2010

Reviewer: Margaretha Haugen

Reviewer's report:

Major Compulsory Revisions.
1. First of all the most important results have been put in additional tables and not in the main manuscript. This is especially true for table 4 and 5.
2. In the abstract results are given that have not been stated before in the manuscript.
3. The dietary data collection is not satisfactory described. For the reader it is impossible to follow the description on page 5 beginning with the sentence A data collection form on daily.............
4. The model built for violence score calculations is not given, page 6.
5. Comparable studies given in table 6 and used in the discussion should have been included in Introduction.

Minor Essential Revisions.
The aim of the study is very complicated stated in the Introduction.
Wording in the manuscript made it hard to understand the meaning, like forth line page 5 and second line page 9,

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field

Quality of written English: Not suitable for publication unless extensively edited

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
