Title: Psychosocial working conditions and the utilization of health care services

Version: 3  Date: 3 August 2011

Reviewer's report:

The authors have done an excellent job in addressing concerns raised in the original review. The authors recognize the limitation of the study. Table 1 is somewhat unclear as to what the various numbers stand for. I understand it is percentage. However, for males (0.51) and females (0.47), it does not add up to 100%. I suggest the authors state numbers represent percentage and they do not always, because of xxxx, add up to 100 percent.
