Title: Promoting menstrual health among Persian adolescent girls from low socioeconomic backgrounds: A quasi-experimental study

Version: 2 Date: 14 December 2011

Reviewer: Yueh-Chih Chen

Reviewer's report:

The theme of the study is an important health issue for adolescent. The research method is appropriate. However, please clarify the following questions:

1. In reviewing the references, most of the studies use the term "health education", would you please explain the reason for using the term "health training" in the section of method in your study?

2. In experimental study, "health education intervention" is usually used to reveal study treatment, would you please explain the reason for using the term "training" to reveal study treatment?

3. In line 26 of the section of "Result", the sentence: "The patients with PMS had poor....................", would you explain the reason for using "The patients....."?

4. In Table 1 and Table 2, (n, %) should be n (%)?? as the number in each cell is written as 30(8.6), etc..
