Version: 2 Date: 15 April 2012

Reviewer's report:

The main points raised by the reviewers have been addressed to my satisfaction. I believe the article reads better now. However, there are still some examples of English that is not 100% grammatical. I don't believe this interferes with understanding.

there is a flaw in the article in referring to GDP for Iran as $200. This should be corrected.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
