Title: Problems with sex among gay and bisexual men with diagnosed HIV in the United Kingdom

Version: 1 Date: 13 September 2012

Reviewer: Susan Kippax

Reviewer's report:

This well written paper is of interest to those working in HIV treatment and care and raises important issues with regard to sexual well-being and ways in which sexual problems experienced by gay and bisexual men living with HIV may be overcome.

Essential Minor Revision

The abstract promises that the study explores sexual health and well-being more broadly. I think this is an over-statement as the paper - at least - focuses on sexual health and sexual well-being (not well-being more broadly).

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Acceptable

Statistical review: Yes, and I have assessed the statistics in my report.
