Association between neighborhood deprivation and fruits and vegetables consumption and leisure-time physical activity: a cross-sectional multilevel analysis

Luís Alves et al

I have read through the article. It’s a great study, my only issue is the study was conducted more than a decade ago. Many economic changes have occurred in 11 years. I hope their findings are still relevant and able to influence policy

“Conclusion

This study contributes to judge of the potential effectiveness of health interventions directed to neighborhood socioeconomic characteristics” I’m not sure if this sentence is correctly expressed.

Thanks
