Title: The contribution of office work to sedentary risk

Version: 1  Date: 18 January 2013

Reviewer's report:

Dear Authors,

As written, your paper seems to explain how people with office jobs sit a lot. It’s hard to be very excited about this finding. I think you have a more interesting data set – because of your time stamped objective data.

So I hope you can think about revising this paper in a way that really addresses the correlations between PA at work and PA outside of work.

To repeat, these are neat data, try to analyze them in a more interesting way.
