Reviewer's report

Title: 'It is like a tomato stall where someone can pick what he likes': Structure and practices of female sex work in Kampala, Uganda.

Version: 2 Date: 21 July 2013

Reviewer: Gillian Abel

Reviewer's report:

I think that the authors provided a better discussion of how they came to the sample that they talked about in this paper - they addressed my comment in the previous review appropriately. They also brought more discussion of condom negotiation into the findings which was good.

I don't think that the discussion advances knowledge in any way. This section could still do with some more robust suggestions regarding interventions besides saying that these need to be structural. I entirely agree that policy on how sex work is regulated is important but there needs to be some critical discussion of what this might look like in Uganda.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Acceptable

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.

Declaration of competing interests:

I declare that I have no competing interests