Reviewer’s report:

Thank you for the opportunity to review the revised manuscript, “Stigma trajectories among people living with HIV (PLHIV) embarking on a lifetime journey with antiretroviral drugs in Jinja, Uganda.” I received the revised manuscript from the editors on June 24, 2013. This re-review is being written on June 24, 2013. Having reviewed the revised manuscript, I feel the authors were reasonably responsive to the comments I made in the first round of revisions. Where they declined to make the suggested revisions, their responses provided reasonable explanations for why they declined to do so. Similar to the comments I raised during the first review, the newly revised text will require copyediting (either by the authors or BMC staff). Otherwise I have no further comments to raise.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
