Reviewer's report:

I've gone through the revised manuscript, the other reviewers’ comments, and the table the authors provided to represent their responses to (some of) the concerns raised. At this point, I believe the authors have addressed within the manuscript the concerns that they could address (e.g., there still appears to be no psychometric properties of the survey tool, but I suspect that is because they do not have them to report). Most improved, in my opinion, is the contextualizing of the study and its justification for their part of the world. I am satisfied the authors have done a suitable job revising this manuscript and I think at this point, it would be appropriate to consider it for publication.
