Major Compulsory Revisions
1. The target population is interesting. However, it might be better if the authors explained clearly about the magnitude of the problem in this target population. In addition, it did not clear about studied variables. Whether it derived from previous research studies or theoretical basis.
2. It did not well identify for risk taking behavior in this study. The title focused on risk behavior related to HIV. In the table 1, variables mostly referred to sexual risk behavior. Many issues related to HIV did not included (e.g. drug injection)
3. Methodology for sample selection did not well clarification. The second stage as present interviewed everyone or selected in random. The sample size did not well defined. The instrument had not been addressed.
4. Data analysis should not need to explain in details.
5. The discussion was supported by out of date previous studies. In addition, it should be provided more information about the reasons support findings.
6. The recommendations did not relate to findings.
