Version: 1 Date: 30 May 2014

Reviewer’s report:

The topic of the paper is important for mapping trends of obesity in adult populations of Hungary.
I have the following remarks:
Introduction - to outline the major health risks associated with obesity. The results and data from previous studies included in the introduction to be use in the discussion
To be define more clearly the aim of the study.
It is not clear whether the study is representative, the author’s state that they examined patients of primary care; patients with cardiovascular problems are presented in a larger percentage, which distorts the sample.
The conclusion does not correspond to the results presented.

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published
