Title: Development and Validation of Psychosocial Determinants Measures of Physical Activity among Iranian Adolescent Girls

Version: 2 Date: 14 November 2007

Reviewer: C. Robert C Cloninger

Reviewer's report:

The authors describe a useful validation of measures of physical activity in Iranian adolescent women. The topic of physical activity is timely given the importance of rising rates of obesity and inactivity. The review of the literature is informative. The development of the scales is face-valid and confirmed by their results. The paper will make available useful information about measurement in this important but neglected area.
