Reviewer's report

Title: Prevalence of psychiatric disorders in relation with urbanization in Germany

Version: 2 Date: 1 June 2007

Reviewer: Pierluigi Morosini

Reviewer's report:

General
The English is still bad, unacceptable repetitions are still present (for instance at the middle of pg. 8 and the beginning of pg. 9), still too much emphasis is given to statistical significance (p values fetishism). That the prevalence of psychiatric disorder in married people is lower, is not interesting, it is a common place. The drift hypothesis is never discussed.

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Major Compulsory Revisions (that the author must respond to before a decision on publication can be reached)

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Minor Essential Revisions (such as missing labels on figures, or the wrong use of a term, which the author can be trusted to correct)

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

Discretionary Revisions (which the author can choose to ignore)

----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------

What next?: Reject because scientifically unsound

Level of interest: An article of insufficient interest to warrant publication in a scientific/medical journal

Quality of written English: Not suitable for publication unless extensively edited

Statistical review: Yes, and I have assessed the statistics in my report.

Declaration of competing interests:
I declare that I have no competing interests.