Title: Cost-effectiveness of Rotavirus Vaccination in Vietnam

Version: 3 Date: 7 January 2009

Reviewer: Mark Jit

Reviewer’s report:

Kim and co-workers have added a scenario with waning vaccine protection. Their estimate of vaccine waning is based on a very conservative interpretation of data from the Linhares study, which is appropriate as a lower bound for long-term protection given our current knowledge. They have also added some appropriate discussion points about the assumptions made and the need for further data in this area.
