Title: Unilateral phrenic nerve lesion in Lyme neuroborreliosis

Version: 2 Date: 23 December 2012

Reviewer: Josh Torgovnick

Reviewer's report:

The article is much improved and ready to go with one change if you like.
In response to the other reviewer's comment you have added a long discussion on CXCL13 but there is no explanation as to why. I don't know exactly how you explain this but you might simply say that we did not look at this marker for these reasons or leave it as it is and the readers will take it as an interesting comment though it comes out of the blue.

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field
