Reviewer’s report

Title: A Solitary Bronchial Papilloma with Unusual Endoscopic Presentation. Case study and literature review.

Version: 1 Date: 22 July 2009

Reviewer: GEORGE PLATANIOTIS

Reviewer’s report:

The authors should be congratulated for the review of the literature. I would also agree with the way they have presented their case.

However, in order their paper to be published (if finally accepted for publication) it needs to be re-written by an English-speaking person, as it suffers from grammatical and syntactic errors.

More specifically, in the abstract they should mention why the patient was referred to them.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Not suitable for publication unless extensively edited

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
