Reviewer's report:

Based on your assessment of the validity of the manuscript, what do you advise should be the next step?

The authors have comprehensively covered (either revised or explained) all comments and suggestions except that outlined below. I recommend publication after this is addressed. This will be a fine addition to our understanding of cephalomedulary nails.

- Accept after minor essential revisions (which the authors can be trusted to make): A lack of statistical significance does not show equivalence or equality. Unless a test of equivalence was specifically used, the authors should not use the term "equal." Instead they can say "no significant difference was found" or "were not significantly different."
