Reviewer’s report:

Major Compulsory Revisions:

The present paper is a case report about a very unusual clinical setting, even though the described complications are well known.

The provided informations are complete and the content doesn't need of any improvement.

The main issue is about the language. Unfortunately it needs major revisions in the whole paper. Moreover there are some typos that need to be corrected (e.g. Conclusions section: "...Even a POSTOPERATIVE increased POSTOPERATIVE flexion like....").

Minor essential revisions

I suggest to divide your "conclusions section" in two different paragraphs: discussion and conclusions.
