Title: The Osteoporosis Care Gap in Canada

Reviewer's report:

I checked the authors responses to all of the criticisms of their paper and I think they have done a good job. I still feel the paper is limited in being restricted to Canada but I accept their argument that establishing the problem exists in one country is important and may encourage others to look at their own settings. So as far as I am concerned they have dealt with the criticisms and I have no further comment to make - the decision is an editorial one.
