Major Compulsory Revisions
None

Minor Essential Revisions

The paper should be reviewed by an individual competent in scientific written English. The overall goal of the paper's components is understandable, but improvement of the English would make this easier.

Discretionary Revisions

It may be worth mentioning more detail on your comment of Hussain et al (NEJM 2013) paper being inconclusive. For example, you could clarify that they stated "we cannot rule out a 20% greater risk of death with intermittent therapy."

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
