Reviewer's report:

Dear Sir,

The article plays considerable interest.

Authors should highlight possible differences between nulliparous and pluripara. Second should be reported among the possible limitations of the study the fact that a diagnosis in this period can be misleading since during pregnancy there may be transient changes in the characters of primitive headaches (see Maggioni et al. Headache during pregnancy, Cephalalgia 17: 765-69; 1997).

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests
