Title: Use of complementary and alternative medicines for infertility enhancement by a sample of Turkish women: a descriptive study

Version: 3 Date: 9 March 2010

I am happy for the paper below to be published if "patterns of use" alone are of sufficient interest to your readers. When I compare the paper below to the December "Attitude and use of herbal medicines among pregnant women in Nigeria", the paper I reviewed was much smaller in scope.

The alternative journal choice may be a better fit for this paper because it has a relatively small sample size and is purely descriptive.
