Reviewer's report

Title: Antibacterial activity of extracts from medicinal plants used by Haudenosaunee peoples of New York State

Version: 1  Date: 21 August 2010

Reviewer: Ramón Enrique Robles Zepeda

Reviewer's report:

The paper is consistent and interesting for scientists in the study area. The chapter on materials and methods should be substantially corrected because it omits relevant information to establish the conditions under which it was carried out the determination of the antibacterial activity. I propose that these observations are corrected prior to acceptance and publication.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Acceptable
