comments

use abbreviation of the plant name after defining it for the first time.

page 14 use "residue" instead of "rubbish" page 15- calculations of the concentrations are wrong. If you add 1mg of the extract to 9ml of 10% tween, the final concentration will be 0.01% and is very low. Check and correct the calculations.

in discussion section, discuss about the differences of the contents of the extracts and compare the findings with previous reports.
