Reviewer's report

Title: Clinically relevant safety issues associated with St. John's wort product labels

Version: 2 Date: 8 April 2008

Reviewer: Klaus Linde

Reviewer's report:

This is a simple but interesting study on safety information for St John's wort products on the US market. I have no major comments.

A minor comment: It would have been nice if the authors would also have checked dosage recommendations and informations on the extract. As some products (at least on the European market) contain only low amounts of active ingredients efficacy might be compromised, but also safety concerns might be less relevant.

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field
