Reviewer’s report

Title: Cinema in the training of psychiatry residents: focus on helping relationships  Running Title: Cinema and psychiatry residents

Version: 1  Date: 20 March 2013

Reviewer: Gopinath Ranjith

Reviewer’s report:

I have previously reviewed this paper and this is a review of a resubmission.

Major Compulsory Revisions

None

Minor Essential Revisions

I note that in the re-submission the authors have lengthened the discussion by including reflections about the discussion about four films discussed in their seminars. I am referring to the sub-sections titled The seventh floor, The Closet, M and Remains of the day. Given that they have already given details of the films in Table 1 I recommend that they only include one film in the Discussion to give the readers a flavour of their group.

An issue of language: In section Discussion sub-section Theoretical premises: beyond images paragraph 4, sentence 2. The start of the sentence 'Such as literature,...' needs to be changed to 'Similar to literature...', or 'Like literature...'

Discretionary Revisions
