Title: Disagreements with implications: Diverging discourses on the ethics of non-medical use of methylphenidate for performance enhancement

Version: 1  Date: 12 May 2009

Reviewer: Eduardo Rodriguez

Reviewer's report:

- Discretionary revisions
- In the conclusions it will be good to highlight the need for scientific support of discourses in the media, bioethics and public health. Failure to report scientific probes of discourse may create false expectations and constitute part of the problem creating differences in paradigms

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field
