Reviewer’s report

Title: Benefit sharing: An exploration on the contextual discourse of a changing concept.

Version: 1 Date: 22 April 2013

Reviewer’s report:

I find that this is a good and interesting paper. I have no detailed comments as the language, presentation and conceptualisation are clear.

One general consideration inspired by the reading: I wonder what would appear if the three paradigms were seen in a broader context, or rather time span? I have an idea that there is a time sequence in this that may not only fit with, but may actually reflect a more general trend in society towards neo-liberalism, individualisation and commercialisation. I am not sure it fits into the paper itself, but it is worth a thought (that the authors may already have considered).
