Version: 3 Date: 28 October 2010

Reviewer’s report:

I have read the paper again. I can be short. The authors addressed in a very satisfactory way the concerns that I have raised. The paper is throughout consistent and well organized. The findings and discussion are well placed within a theoretical framework. It is an important paper in the context of wide scale implementation of EHRs and e-prescribing in US primary care. I recommend publication.
