Reviewer’s report:

There are a few minor points, such as
1. The “English” writing is moderate- editing help is needed for spelling, sentence structure and grammar.
2. Several unsubstantiated statements and some repetition between the introduction and the discussion sections.
3. The authors should clarify and indicate the gap in current knowledge and methods used for data rigors.
4. In discussion repeated some result again. Overall the write up is good, but it would benefit from some revisions and further discussion of the limitations.
5. The conclusion section is too brief and needs to discuss more in-depth implications for nursing.

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
