Reviewer's report

Title: Experience of Nurses with using eHealth in GilgitBaltistan, Pakistan: a qualitative study in primary and secondary healthcare.

Version: 6  Date: 31 October 2012

Reviewer: Carol Bond

Reviewer's report:

There are places where the use of English is poor, although this does not detract from the meaning of the sentence e.g. 'Participants were interviewed on phone for....' should be Participants were interviewed on the telephone for.... and 'Teleconsultation prevent patients from all these inconveniences and stressors.' which I think is trying to say that Teleconsultation removes all these inconveniences and stressors from patients.

Whilst ethical review is mentioned there is no discussion of any ethical issues identified and how they were addressed.

The finding that introducing ehealth can necessitate a change in the organisation of health services has not been developed in the discussion, this is a shame as it is an important consideration.

I think the final comment is an issue that does need to be addressed before the paper is published as it does feel to me that this is a very important finding.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
