Reviewer's report:

Please don't feel a need to apologies in response to my comments. We all learn from each other, and the review process is how higher level exchanges occur. Please accept my comments as suggestions originating from perhaps another point of view. And it is my privilege to have this peripheral contribution to your well thought out manuscript.

there are some minor language issues, the editorial staff will need to either resolve or accept as is.

p., l. 2 & 3; should read, "a cross-sectional study of Hong Kong community nurses", or "a workplace survey of Hong Kong community nurses".

p.3, l.2 & p.10, l 16; CIs are adequate, p=... is redundant.

p.11, l.1-15; This would be better expressed as a few global sentences and referral of the reader to the table.

I think the revisions adequately address the previously mentioned concerns.
