Reviewer's report

Title: Trends in completion of immunization in the context of health reforms: The Tanzania case study

Version: 3  Date: 5 April 2010

Reviewer: Bolajoko O. Olusanya

Reviewer's report:

Major compulsory revisions

1. Introduction: This section needs to be properly organized for clarity and to stimulate readers’ interest in the article. A supplementary file containing some essential editorial revisions is attached for the author’s benefit. The references have to be reorganized in the light of these revisions.

2. Results: It is surprising that the author failed to highlight the role of education as a consistent independent predictor after multivariable regression analysis. This important finding should be addressed and also discussed in the interpretation of the results within the context of the study population.

3. Discussion: The limitations of this retrospective study should be highlighted in this section. The discussion section should end with study’s main conclusions.

4. General: The entire manuscript should be carefully edited for grammar as well as consistent usage of either British or American spellings.

Minor essential revisions

1. The use of “we” in the text is probably inappropriate as there is only one author.

2. Similarly, the statement on author’s contribution is redundant.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
