Reviewer's report:

Major Compulsory Revisions

1. The revised manuscript “Evaluation of Computerized Health Management Information System for Primary Health Care in rural India” accepted all of the reviewer’s suggestions. However, reviewer #1 suggested Table 3 should be included in the Appendix, not as a Table, since it is not a result.

2. I don’t think Table 4 needs to be included in the paper. The text already describes how the data were coded and analyzed. The text, however, should mention that this is a descriptive study.

Minor Compulsory Revisions

1. The manuscript still includes a number of spelling/grammatical errors that need to be corrected. For example, acronym in this sentence in the Abstract is incomplete: “Health workers acknowledge the usefulness of H in service delivery…”. Also something is missing from the sentence on page 18: "The main concern is related to technical aspects of computerization til Community Health Centre (secondary level) or Primary Health Centre level”.

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
