Reviewer’s report

Title: Core indicators evaluation of effectiveness of HIV-AIDS preventive-control programmes carried out by Nongovernmental organizations. A mixed method study.

Version: 1  Date: 3 July 2011

Reviewer: Jill T Owczarzak

Reviewer’s report:

I appreciate the authors' responsiveness to the previous review. They addressed the concerns I raised in my earlier report. The study described in the manuscript is interesting in its incorporation of diverse methodological approaches to the issue of HIV prevention services provided by NGOs. I think the study’s attempt to create a more comprehensive model of evaluation and effectiveness is important, particularly in the light of intervention development, dissemination, implementation, and sustainability. It has the potential to more fully include the perspectives and experiences of service providers in evaluation models, something that is generally missing from current evaluation programs.

I have no discretionary, minor, or compulsory revisions for the authors.
