Reviewer’s report:

Dear Authors,

I’m pleased with the revised version of your article. You have been able to effectively re-work the article by integrating the reviewers comments. The introduction and the methods are now clear. I still think that by only using broad keywords you may have mist important publications relevant for your research questions. I also think that using a system to grade the level of evidence, even without being able to do a meta analysis, would have been helpful. But your findings are interesting enough to recommend publication.
