Title: Influencing factors of speaking up for patient safety among hospital based health care professionals: an integrative review.

Version: 2 Date: 23 September 2013

Reviewer's report:

Minor essential revisions

Overall the article is interesting, and offers a fairly systematic literature review on speaking up behaviors. The tables are excellent and very useful. The discussion does not link very explicitly to the results section's categorization of the papers.

There are a couple of minor language issues that need to be fixed.
Pg 5- “tuition” I think you mean teaching or tutoring.
Pg 5- don’t understand how Sasou’s model fits.
Pg 7- what does “several patient safety and educational experts were consulted” mean?
P 8- “explicated” I think you mean “executed”

Level of interest: An article whose findings are important to those with closely related research interests

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Statistical review: No, the manuscript does not need to be seen by a statistician.
