Reviewer's report

Title: Is networking different with doctors working part-time? Differences in social networks of part-time and full-time doctors

Version: 2 Date: 1 September 2008

Reviewer: Elizabeth E West

Reviewer's report:

I have read the paper and I do think it has improved and is more interesting as a result. My main problem with the paper was that there seems to be very little differences in the hours worked by part-timers, but this time around they point out that the difference is around 10 hours which is not insignificant. I am not going to argue over the other points but I still think that some of the text could be described as "awkward" and in need of editing. I am happy though for you to go ahead with publishing this article