Title: An Anti-Inflammatory Diet as Treatment for Inflammatory Bowel Disease: A Case Series

Version: 3  Date: 5 September 2013

Reviewer: NAVEEN KAUSHAL

Reviewer's report:

Although authors have edited the manuscript considering the minor revisions suggested, however, there are major concerns regarding the design of the study which need to be addressed.

Major Comments:

1. Lack of enough number of subjects and controls remain the major concern of the study and authors agree that changes are insignificant and to the fact that this makes it just an observation which needs further extensive experimental extrapolations.

2. The clinic-pathological data related to changes in the molecular markers of inflammatory, histo-pathological changes should be included. and correlated with other gross clinical outcomes.

To my view point, this study is inconclusive and limited merit to be considered for publication in current form.
