Reviewer’s report

Title: Six principles to enhance health workforce flexibility

Version: 1  Date: 28 June 2014

Reviewer: Sue Kilpatrick

Reviewer’s report:

This paper is a literature review. It is only of average quality and not in my view at a standard suitable for publication in a peer reviewed journal. There is a huge literature in this field. A systematic review methodology is needed to achieve anything that is worthy of consideration for publication.

As well there is a note in the paper refs, which suggests a rushed job, and further to the above, lack of attention to the extent of the literature already published.

The paper should be rejected.

Level of interest: An article of limited interest
