Title: Psychological Advocacy Towards Healing (PATH): randomised controlled trial to determine the effectiveness and cost-effectiveness of a psychological intervention delivered by domestic violence advocates

Version: 1 Date: 17 February 2013

Reviewer: Sylvie Lo Fo Wong

Reviewer’s report:

The study protocol is rigorous in all aspects, except for the possible attrition, assumed to be 20%. Although the research group designed an extensive protocol to diminish this along with a larger sample size, there is still a risk that it is all too optimistic. Nevertheless the study protocol merits to be published in its current state.
