Title: A successfully thrombolysed acute inferior myocardial infarction due to type A aortic dissection with lethal consequences: the importance of early echocardiography.

Version: 2 Date: 29 April 2011

Reviewer: FANY CHRONIDOU

Reviewer's report:

A very interesting case report for cardiac surgeons and cardiologists as well, which reminds us that history of the patient should present an olistic apect of the patient. It is not unusual due to our specialization to overview situations which overlap each other with false or incomplete predominant symptoms.
