Version: 1 Date: 29 April 2013

Reviewer's report:

Dear authors,

I read this manuscript with immense interest and I congratulate you for successfully treating the patient. Monophasic pulmonary blastoma is a rare primary pulmonary tumour with scarce reporting in the literature. Manuscript justifies a balance between surgery and the histopathology. Surgical and histo-pathological images are well taken.

Minor Revision:
Language and grammar are weak points in the manuscript and it needs be amended by a person with English as a first language.

My overall impression is that the manuscript can be considered for publication.

Level of interest: An article of importance in its field

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Declaration of competing interests:

Nothing to declare.
