Title: Dermatosis neglecta in a case of multiple fractures, shoulder dislocation and radial nerve palsy

Version: 3 Date: 5 September 2008

Reviewer: Mary Gantcheva

Which of the following best describes what type of case report this is?: Presentations, diagnoses and/or management of new and emerging diseases

Comments to authors:

Type of the case report "Dermatosis neglecta in a case of multiple fractures, shoulder dislocation and radial nerve palsy" tends to be "presentations and diagnoses of a disease". Unfortunately it is neither a new nosological entity nor an unusual presentation of the disease.

The case is not worth reporting.

It is persuasive but do not give the readers some new information.

The disease is a common one and the case reported has not explanatory and diagnostic value.

I think it should be rejected due to low interest.
