Reviewer's report

Title: A rare case of uterine sarcoma

Version: 1 Date: 21 January 2010

Reviewer: K Iihara

Which of the following best describes what type of case report this is?: None

If other, please specify:

Rare case report of the leiomyosarcoma of the uterus, but not awfully rare, and some new points were not clearly written.

Has the case been reported coherently?: No

Is the case report authentic?: Yes

Is the case report ethical?: Yes

Is there any missing information that you think must be added before publication?: Yes

Is this case worth reporting?: Yes

Is the case report persuasive?: Yes

Does the case report have explanatory value?: Yes

Does the case report have diagnostic value?: Yes

Will the case report make a difference to clinical practice?: Yes

Is the anonymity of the patient protected?: Yes

Comments to authors:

- General comments
The leiomyosarcoma of the uterus is a rare tumor, so it is needed to find some clinical instructive points. I would like to request the description about those points in this report. The report is written in rather colloquial style. In some part, it is needed to change the structure of the sentence.
- Revisions necessary for publication

There are also some questions for you to answer, including one that asks your advice on publication.

#Why the patient notice the mass in the abdomen? Is she skiny? Did'nt she have any past history of genital bleeding? How about the ascites?
#The pictures you showed are all similar, I recommend to show the picture of the CT, the cut surface of the tumor and histology.

Quality of written English: Needs some language corrections before being published

Declaration of competing interests:

'I declare that I have no competing interests'