Comments:

In methodology the authors need to mention how sample size of 120 was calculated. What was the method of sample collection, was it consecutive or convenient sampling? as the method of sample collection can cause a bias in the results in such type of satisfaction studies as authors can intend to approach patients who would give better results.

Statistic method was a descriptive where as p-value would provide a better comparison.

Satisfaction score needs to be added. What questions were asked from the patients as many things can affect the satisfaction which may not be related to anesthesia. With poor patient education, many would not understand anesthesia services.

Authors need to mention what specific questions were asked at which satisfaction was non-satisfaction was expressed.
