Title: A population-based screening study for cardiovascular diseases and diabetes in Danish postmenopausal women: Acceptability and prevalence

Version: 0 Date: 20 Jul 2017

Reviewer: Jeremy Oats

Reviewer's report:

This is a well designed comprehensive study that is clearly reported and results justified.

The only comment that this reviewer has is the markably healthy nature of the Danish population studied including lack of obesity. For practitioners in other centres the direct extrapolation to their populations would need caveats and possibly have higher yields of potentially modifiable findings.
