Title: Assessment of hypertension management and control: a registry-based observational study in two municipalities in Cuba

Version: 0 Date: 04 Sep 2018

Reviewer: Ishag Adam

Reviewer's report:

The most important factors for uncontrolled hypertension were, poor adherence to the drugs (antihypertensive) and comorbidity e.g. diabetes mellitus.

Authors did not investigate the adherence to the drugs

Other important factors are the levels of the lipids and their profiles. Authors did not mentioned why they did not include them in their assessment

I think the duration of hypertension, smoking and many factors have to be included if it was decided to assess blood pressure control in any population.
