Title: Factors associated with low patient satisfaction in out-of-hours primary care in Denmark - a population-based cross-sectional study

Version: 0 Date: 23 Feb 2016

Reviewer: Lindsay Blank

Reviewer’s report:

The response rate for the study was a little over 50%. Given that this could introduce substantial bias into the findings I would like further information to convince me that those who responded were not different to those who did (a couple of factors are mentioned already e.g. gender). I would also like to know what attempts were made to contact non responders. Given the response rate I would like to see more discussion of the potential biases in the discussion section.
